

Bachelor of Arts with a Major in Languages/Teacher Licensure

Through a partnership with the College of Education and Human Development and the Department of Teaching, Leadership & Practice, students may seek teacher licensure in a language. The following program of study must be completed:

I. Requirements for the B.A. with a major in a Language.

II. Humanities requirements:

Code	Title	Credits
HIST 101	Western Civilization I	3
HIST 102	Western Civilization II	3
English courses beyond College Composition II		4
Total Credits		10

III. Additional requirements for licensure in French, German or Spanish

Code	Title	Credits
Phonetics (with grade no lower than B)		2
Advanced Grammar (with grade no lower than B)		2

A course in civilization of the country or countries in which the language is spoken is also strongly recommended.

IV. Admission to the Teacher Education program, normally while taking T&L 250 Introduction to Education. (See College of Education and Human Development (<https://education.und.edu/>) for admission and licensing requirements.)

V. Students seeking the secondary teaching licensure in Languages must complete the Department of Teaching, Leadership & Practice requirements in Secondary Education (See College of Education and Human Development (<https://education.und.edu/>)).

Language majors seeking teacher licensure must have an advisor in both the Languages Department and the Department of Teaching and Learning.
