

Minor in Global Studies

T&L 251	Understanding Individuals with Different Abilities	3
WGS 200	Introduction to Gender Studies	3

The minor in Global Studies requires 15 credits plus language credits. The program is organized into two categories: World Language and Thematic Concentration.

I. Language

Level II Proficiency (2 semesters) in a world language is required and can be fulfilled through the following:

- Students can complete this requirement (8 credits) through courses in Ancient Greek, French, German, Latin, Norwegian, or Spanish offered by the Department of Languages and Global Studies.
- Students wishing to fulfill their language requirement through the study of American Sign Language (6 credits) or American Indian languages (6 credits) are encouraged to do so and should speak with the Director of Global Studies. Level II proficiency is offered at UND and options for advanced study are available through Lake Region State College and the North Dakota Tribal College System.
- Students with prior world language experience are encouraged to enroll in lateral credits or request the evaluation of achievements such as International Baccalaureate, Seal of Biliteracy, and other such credentials. See the Director of Global Studies or the Global Studies advisor to discuss your options.
- Non-native speakers of English may choose to use English to fulfill the world language requirement.

II. Thematic Concentration

Students may choose a thematic concentration from the following options: 1) Development Studies, 2) European Studies, 3) Human Rights, Peace & Conflict, 4) Indigenous Studies, 5) Intercultural Competency, 6) International Relations & Diplomacy, and 7) The Arctic North. The chosen coursework must be from at least 2 different departments, may include no more than 6 credits from lower-level courses (1xx-2xx), may include a maximum of 3 credits from upper-level world language courses (3xx-4xx) and may include a maximum of 3 credits from experiential-learning options (see options under Major in Global Studies).
